

We are making the fifth series of a marriage series called 'For Better For Worse', which spans the last 13 years - a kind of '7 Up' of the marriage world. These latest 2 x one hour documentaries will go out on ITV 1 in January 2012 at 10.30pm.

Each time we make a new series we get a new couple on board. So we're looking for couples getting married in the next two months.

I am looking for an entertaining duo with a great story to tell and (given our schedule) people who are getting married in the next couple of months! Filming would involve interviews before the big day, filming the wedding itself - for which they would get the footage of course - and the hope that the couple would let us film with them in years to come.

The series has been hugely successful and most of the original couples are back on board.

If you can think of anyone who would like to be a part of this show, I would be grateful if you could pass this information on to them as soon as possible and ask them to contact me on 0207 157 3824 or 07725912852, or email me at nicola.cornick@itv.com.
